U.S. And Hanoi Widen Hopes For Peace

By JOHN M. NIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam, bargaining through public statements and diplomatic channels, appear to have narrowed their differences over a formula for slowing the war and talking peace.

But neither side is committed to any kind of deal and the whole trans-Pacific exchange could be wrecked by a decision at any moment that one side or the other would go no farther. President Johnson's news conference Thursday was clearly designed in part to answer policy declarations published in Hanoi last weekend. Administration officials privately confirmed that Johnson's remarks were carefully considered in advance and were intended to serve a purpose. The purpose is to prod and encourage the Communist government of North Vietnam to come up with a definite proposal for ending the bombing and getting peace talks started. The possibility of such a North Vietnamese move was raised by the statements made last weekend. Johnson's move presumably is being reinforced through diplomatic channels as was the North Vietnamese maneuver earlier this week. In view of some officials here the U.S. and North Vietnamese governments are closer than they've ever been on a formula for trying to start settling the war; others believe that until the next moves are made and weighed it is extremely difficult to read any significance into what has happened so far. As one official put it, "We know they're putting the biggest campaign they've ever mounted to get us to stop the bombing for nothing. What we don't know is whether something serious may come out of all this in the weeks or months ahead." What intrigues diplomatic officials here is the difference which remains. Hanoi has not promised peace talks would result if the bombing were stopped. The United States has not pledged that a promise of peace talks would be enough to stop the bombing. But both sides seem to have indicated that such developments are possible.

Legislature Sentiment Mixed

Tax Prospect: 50-50

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney's fiscal reform proposal—keyed to a state income tax—appeared today to be in for a long, cold winter. Some legislators were saying it may be a long, hot summer as well.

Democrats criticized the program as shifting too much of the tax burden off business and onto individuals.

Even some Republicans predicted the package has only a 50-50 chance of getting through the Legislature.

"I don't know if we're over the hill or over the cliff," observed a top Romney aide.

The governor unveiled his 1967-68 budget and a tax reform program in separate messages Thursday. Then he appeared before a televised joint legislative convention to take the message to the people.

$1.15 Billion Fund
Romney proposed a $1.15 billion general purpose spending program which he said should be financed by a 2½ per cent personal income tax, a 5 per cent income tax on corporations, and an 8 per cent tax on financial institutions.

In addition, an increase of three cents per package on cigarettes (bringing it to 16 cents) was urged.

There were signs that many legislators would like to get off the political hook and let voters decide by referendum whether they want a state income tax. Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, said he would favor a referendum setting a constitutional limit on the income tax rate that could be levied.

Vs. Sales Tax
Romney, noting the hard-core opposition to an income tax among some lawmakers, said: "I know that there are many who would prefer an addition to the sales tax rather than an income tax. But a sales tax increase only will add to the regressivity and aggravate one of the evils which we hope to correct."

The Constitution now limits the sales tax to 4 per cent. It cannot be increased without a constitutional amendment which Romney pointed out could not come before the next general election in November 1968.

"The time is now, and the job is ours," Romney told the lawmakers.

The Constitution, which Romney helped write as a vice president of the 1961 Constitutional Convention, also prohibits a graduated income tax. This proposal has been under strong Democratic attack.

"Convenient Excuse"
"This opposition is impractical," the governor declared, adding:

"Unfortunately, some who favor a graduated tax find it a convenient excuse to avoid decisions which cannot be delayed."

Romney's message drew a mixed reaction. Sen. Charles Zoller, R-Benton Harbor, assistant majority leader, gave the Romney package a 50-50 chance of enactment.

In praising the budget as fiscally responsible, Zoller carefully avoided any endorsement of an income tax.

"It certainly is within the limits necessary to continue progressive state government," he said. But he added:

"We still face the problem of raising the necessary funds, and this conservative budget should make our efforts easier."

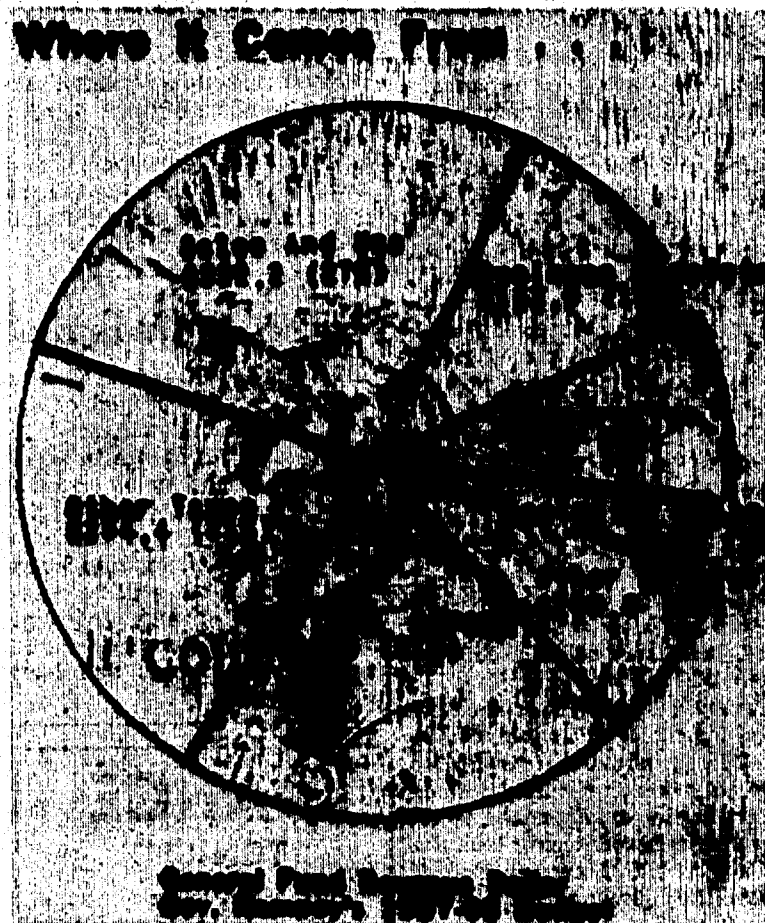

Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, said the Romney program contains some elements of equity and some elements of inequity.

Individual taxpayers, Kowalski pointed out, would pay $22 million more while the business community would pay only $12 million more.

Kowalski took issue with the governor's demand that the tax program be passed ahead of the budget.

"We do not want to vote on taxes before we know how the money is to be used," Kowalski said. "Taxes should not be enacted before appropriations are made."

Romney described his budget as light, even though it calls for an increase in state expenditures of 12.5 per cent. Democrats said it was a standard proposal.

THIS IS HOW Gov. George Romney figures the tax dollars available to finance his proposed $1.15 billion budget for 1967-68. To balance the budget, Romney is asking the legislature for fiscal reform—including a state income tax—to produce $225 million in new revenue. (AP Wirephoto)

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY proposed that the legislature spend $1.15 billion from the state general fund treasury in 1967-68, divided up this way. As usual, education would receive the biggest share—$405.6 million, or 35 per cent. (AP Wirephoto)

Examples Of Tax

LANSING (AP) — Wealthy families would assume a greater share of the state and local tax burden under Gov. Romney's fiscal reform proposals, according to these examples:

A typical four-member family whose only income is salaries totaling $25,000 a year now pays $2300 annually. This would drop $10 to $2290 a year.

If the same family earned $4,500, its total state and local tax bill would climb by $9 a year, from $2300 to $2309. At an annual income of $9,000, the yearly tax total would grow from $2309 to $2318, an increase of $9.

A family now earning $18,000 a year now pays $2600 and would pay $1,571—or $111 more—under Romney's proposed tax structure.

The $9,000-a-year family would save $40 a year under the $10 per capita sales tax credit and would find its property taxes $25 lower. But the personal income tax would take an additional $100 and the three-cent cigarette tax boost would cost this family $15 a year.

Romney Bones Up:

U.P. Inaugural Is At Marquette Saturday

LANSING (AP) — Fresh from delivering his budget and income tax proposals to the Legislature, Gov. George Romney prepared today to head for the Upper Peninsula—to be inaugurated as governor.

Romney was sworn in to his third term as governor in Lansing last Jan. 3, but he will be in Marquette Saturday for his traditional Upper Peninsula inauguration.

Romney flew to Madison, Wis., last Tuesday to confer with Wisconsin Gov. Warren Knowles, chairman of the Upper Great Lakes Economic Development Commission.

Romney and Knowles reportedly discussed some aspects of the commission project including the Mackinac Bridge which links Michigan's Upper and Lower peninsulas.

New Yank Push Aimed At Zone Near Cambodia

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U. S. B-52 bombers pounded war Zone "C" with three raids today in what could be the prelude of a new American drive to clear the Viet Cong from that long-time jungle redoubt along the Cambodian frontier.

A triple blow against Communist positions 62 to 68 miles northwest of Saigon made a total of six strikes against the Viet Cong stronghold by the B-52's since last Saturday.

U. S. military headquarters also announced that an American ground force of at least 8,000 men have started a new search-and-destroy operation 20 miles northeast of Saigon in war Zone D.

The multibrigade force began the drive, called Operation Big Spring, on Wednesday. So far, it has encountered only slight resistance. Commanders reported 14 Viet Cong killed to date in scattered, small skirmishes, with U. S. casualties termed light.

Taking part in Big Spring were the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the 1st Brigade of the 9th Infantry Division, which arrived in Vietnam last December. U. S. headquarters said.

During the day, the South Vietnamese government released 30 war prisoners to North Vietnam in a ceremony at the Ben Hai bridge in the middle of the demilitarized zone which separates North and South Vietnam.

Hundreds Hurt In Peking Fight

TOKYO (AP) — Wall posters in Peking today reported that 250 persons were injured this week in fighting among supporters of Mao Tse-tung in a suburb of the Chinese capital.

Official Maoist mouthpieces also disclosed continuing resistance in Shensi and Kweichow provinces. Coupled with the reported clash in Peking, they indicated Mao's hold on at least some of the areas his forces claim to have seized from supporters of President Liu Shao-chi is by no means secure.

In Moscow, the Soviet Foreign Ministry announced it would begin evacuating wives and children of Soviet Embassy personnel from Peking Saturday, following a week of riotous demonstrations outside the Peking Embassy protesting the treatment of Chinese students passing through Moscow on their way home. So far there was no report that any of the approximately 300 Soviet officials in Peking were being recalled.

Wall posters reported by the Peking correspondent of the Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun said the Maoist "rebels" who stormed into the capital's police headquarters Jan. 17 to take it over in Mao's name had turned out to be as bad as those they replaced.

Exhaust Nearly Kills Family Before Rescue

An airman driving his family from K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base to Chattanooga, Tenn., had a narrow brush with death on Wednesday night when three members of his family were rendered unconscious by exhaust fumes in their car and he was becoming ill.

Airman 2/C James E. Ice realized that something was wrong when a coke bottle from which his wife, Delores, had

Negro Doctor, Wife Slain In Saginaw Home

SAGINAW (AP) — State Police worked under a veil of secrecy today in the investigation of the gangland-style shooting deaths of a prominent Negro physician and his wife.

Investigators said they had uncovered no motive for the slaying of Dr. Archer Adams Claytor, 73, of Saginaw, a former U.S. Commissioner to the Virgin Islands, and his wife, Marie, 58. Police learned of the deaths early Thursday but did not disclose them for several hours and then gave only perfunctory details. Newsmen who gained entry to the Claytor home were quickly ushered out by police.

Officers said autopsies had been ordered but preliminary findings showed both victims' hands tied, had been shot behind the ear at close range. A photo-developer was used to make the shots, officers said. No gun was found.

Signs Of Struggle
Dr. Claytor also may have been beaten with a blunt instrument, officers said. There was evidence he had struggled with his assailant.

A team of six State Police crime laboratory technicians were brought into the Claytor home, a $50,000 structure in a middle-class Negro neighborhood a mile south of the city. There was no sign of forced entry.

State Police Lt. Carl Gray said a hammer, normally kept in a kitchen drawer, was missing. Several kitchen drawers were left pulled out of their slots but little else in the home was disturbed.

No Robbery
At first, police said robbery may have been the motive but this theory was discarded when a large amount of cash was found near Dr. Claytor's body. A medical bag, containing narcotics, was left untouched, Gray said.

Police said the slayings may have occurred Wednesday night. Samuel Harvey, 67, a handyman employed by the couple, discovered the bodies Thursday morning when he came to the home to drive Dr. Claytor on his daily hospital rounds, police said.

Harvey told police he normally was admitted to the house mornings by use of an electric system which, at the sound of a buzzer, opened a garage door. "They didn't ring today," he said. "I went to a neighbor's home and telephoned. When there was no answer, we called police."

Hands Were Bound
Claytor's body was found in the master bedroom. His hands and feet were bound by neckties. He was wearing trousers, slippers and a robe.

The body of Mrs. Claytor, her hands bound with neckties, was dressed in nightclothes. It was found in a spare bedroom.

The Claytors, who lived alone, are survived by two daughters, Carol, 34, a laboratory technician at Wayne State University in Detroit, and Ellen, 26, of Lansing.

Dr. Claytor was honored as the first Negro to be named Michigan's family physician of the year by the Michigan Medical Society in 1959. His wife was appointed to Michigan Gov. George Romney's Commission on the Status of Women in 1963.

Slave Parents
A native of Cooper Hill, Va., Dr. Claytor was one of 13 children born to slave parents. Claytor's father, though illiterate, acquired a 230-acre farm and used its profits to send his children to school. Three of his sons became medical doctors.

Claytor and his brother, Dr. Robert Claytor of Grand Rapids, Mich., graduated from Me- Harry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn. The brothers interned together at Providence Hospital in Chicago before coming to Michigan.

Dr. Claytor was a graduate of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He began his medical practice in Saginaw in 1936.

He was a former director of the Virgin Islands Corp. and he and his wife made annual trips to the islands. In 1959, President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed Dr. Claytor to a six-year term as U.S. Commissioner.

Hanoi Given Top Concession In Peace Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he would be willing to halt American bombing of North Vietnam if the Hanoi government agreed to "just almost any step" in return.

Johnson, however, emphasized six times during a 25-minute White House news conference Thursday in these or similar words that "with the information that I have, with the knowledge that is brought to me, I must say that I do not interpret any action (by Hanoi) that I have observed as being a serious effort to either go to a conference table or to bring the war to an end."

Any Concession
At the same time, Johnson expressed eagerness for almost any type of discussions among the combatants—even talks to decide whether there was any basis for serious peace negotiations. And, in responding to a question that did not even deal with the war, the President volunteered: "I go to bed every night feeling that I killed that man because I could not end the conflict in Vietnam."

Standing before live television cameras and radio microphones in the crowded East Room, Johnson flitted 11 questions and made one brief statement on his own. Most questions dealt directly with Vietnam.

On other subjects, the President:

Volunteered praise for the proposed U.S.-Soviet consular treaty, now facing an uncertain fate in the Senate, and sought to offset widespread opinion that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover opposes the treaty.

Expresses Opposition
Predicted the new Congress will deal more harshly than last year's with administration proposals, but expressed willingness to compromise where necessary.

Lauded the Democratic National Committee and said some within the party critical of its role in last November's election "have been using the committee as a kind of whipping boy."

Expressed the conviction that the nature of the cold war is changing and that, despite such occasional friction points as the eight-year prison sentence ordered by a Czech court this week for an American convicted of spying, the American government should continue to strive for better relations with Communist East Europe.

"Almost Any Step"
Johnson was asked what steps North Vietnam might take to persuade him to halt American bombings there.

"Just almost any step," he quickly replied.

Johnson said the United States would gladly explore any reciprocal action Hanoi might suggest.

At the outset, Johnson said the United States would welcome almost any kind of Vietnam peace talks.

"This might be the Geneva conference. It could be an all-Asian conference, or any other generally acceptable forum," he said.

He said, "We would participate in preliminary discussions which might open the way for formal negotiations. Or there could be preliminary discussions to see whether there could be an agreed set of points which could be the basis for negotiation."

been drinking, tipped over and she didn't react to its spilling in the car.

He spoke to her about the coke and when she didn't respond prodded her and she didn't respond then, either. He was suffering an increasing headache and realized suddenly that something was wrong.

Children Unconscious
He drove off Highway U.S. 3 at the first gasoline station to seek aid. About 5:30 p.m. he pulled into the station of Leo Beauchamp at Wilson. His Plymouth car was pulling a U-Haul trailer with the family's moving needs in it.

Beauchamp and his wife gave immediate first aid. Ice still was conscious, but his wife and their children James E. Jr., and baby Angela, 7 months, were unconscious.

Deputy Sheriff Earl Kell responded to the Beauchamps' call and so did the Hermansville Rescue Squad manned by Carl Swanson and Richard Grenier, who administered oxygen to all members of the family.

Kept Overnight
Mrs. Beauchamp gave Mrs. Ice and the children emetics and used artificial respiration until the Rescue Squad made oxygen available.

Beauchamp found that a

Preliminary OK Given $58,581 Work-Study Plan

Preliminary approval of a $58,581 work-study program for Bay de Noc Community College was announced by President Richard Rinehart Thursday night at a meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Remedial Reading And Pre-School Program Okayed

BARK RIVER — A five week Summer Pre-School and Remedial Reading program in the amount of $6,090 for the Bark River-Harris School District has been approved by the Michigan Department of Education.

The program will be available to approximately 100 children from low income families. It will give enrichment to children entering kindergarten next fall and assist those with reading problems that are now attending school in grades one through six.

Help For Beauty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced Thursday that Port Huron, Mich., will receive $45,300 to help finance a beautification program.

representative, division of student financial aid, Bureau of Higher Education, Chicago.

The program would be funded under the Office of Education, U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

Rinehart said the program, 100 per cent of what the college requested, would provide for employment of 69 students during the summer and 45 students during the school year. Students employed would work for non-profit or governmental agencies while attending college, using money earned to help finance college expenses.

Last year, for example, Rinehart said students were employed during the summer to help conduct the Escanaba recreation program. Salaries were $1.25 per hour.

In other action, the Board set Sunday, May 28, as date for spring commencement exercises and proceeded with plans to obtain a commencement speaker. Practical Nursing commencement for 25 students will be held Friday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m. in William Oliver Auditorium in the Junior High School. Capping ceremony for the graduating nurses is set for 1 p.m. Friday, Feb. 10, at the college student center.

The Board also approved educational-financial aid policy and financial aid awards committees.

The committee on educational-financial aid policy will be concerned with establishing dimensions of community college participation in scholarships, loans, grants and employment (both on and off campus) for its students, while the financial aid awards committee will implement decisions of the educational-financial policy group, process aid applications and award scholarships, etc.

Establishment of a public information office at the college, perhaps to be manned part-time by an instructor of journalism, etc., was discussed, but no action taken pending further consideration by board members.

"I HAVE NOTHING to give them, Ernest, except myself!" exclaims Peter Adamini as Tony in a scene from "Impromptu," one of the four one-act plays to be presented by the Players de Noc at the Escanaba Area High School Auditorium Feb. 9-10. ## Time Change Delay Asked

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Phil Ruppe today asked William Tucker, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to delay the enforcement on the time change scheduled to hit most of the Upper Peninsula on April 1.

According to the Federal Uniform Time Act of 1966 the clocks of most of the Upper Peninsula are scheduled to be turned back one hour on April 1 to Central Standard Time while the Lower Peninsula will remain on Eastern Standard Time.

On Tuesday, Ruppe held an emergency meeting with representatives of the ICC. Today he appealed directly to the chairman. There is no central enforcement authority in each community.

"This could create havoc," Ruppe said. "We could run into a situation where the banks do one thing, the schools do another, and railroads, airlines and media and local businesses run their own independent courses — especially if most of the people oppose the time change."

"I appeal to you," Ruppe wrote the chairman, "not to seek strict national enforcement on April 1, and to give our people and the state an opportunity to review the time problem and seek just solutions."

Ruppe returned to Northern Michigan today "to seek the advice, opinions and counsel of the people of the 11th District."

"The Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Department of Transportation, which will take jurisdiction from the ICC," Ruppe said, "must hear the voice of the people on this, and I plan to find out what it is. We also must work to protect the interest of Gogebic County, Dickinson County and Menominee County who have a special relationship with Wisconsin." (They observe Central Standard Time, except in the summer).

Players In Final Dress Rehearsal

Dress rehearsal for the cast and crew of Act IV, a series of four one-act plays to be presented by the Players de Noc, will be held Monday and Tuesday. Act IV will be staged at the Escanaba Area High School Auditorium on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 9-10 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. John Rogers, ticket chairman for the Players, reports that there are still some tickets available. Several civic groups in the community have purchased blocks of tickets at a reduced rate and several schools have made plans to come. Other clubs or groups who would like further information may call Mrs. Rogers at ST 6-3619.

Tickets may also be purchased at Ernie's Party Store, Goodman's Drug Store, Gust Asp, or West End Drug Store or from any member of the Players de Noc.

Charles Tooman has recently been added to the cast of "Box and Cox," a farce to be directed by Jack Romstad. Romstad is also the executive producer of Act IV.

Other plays in Act IV include "Impromptu," directed by Pete Adamini, "Of the People," directed by Dr. Richard Rinehart and "Zoo Story," to be directed by Bill Williams.

The Players are also making

Rouman Speaks To Sport Club At Menominee

James L. Rouman of Lansing, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Menominee Woods and Stream Sportsman Club at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 6, at Bob's Hall in Menominee.

The Menominee club is considering a change of affiliation from the Northern Michigan Sportsman's Association to the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Rouman is a native of Gladstone and coached at Escanaba High School for 15 years before joining the MUCC organization.

Escanaba Nat'l Gets New Name

Stack Smith, president of the Escanaba National Bank, reports that at the annual meeting of stockholders of the bank voted unanimously to change the name of the bank from the Escanaba National Bank to Northern Michigan National Bank.

Smith stated, "The reason for such a change has been necessitated by our three locations, here in Escanaba and in Rapid River and Bark River."

"It was also decided at the annual meeting to go ahead with our 'on line' computer service for our real estate mortgages and Savings Accounts with National Cash Register Data Center out of Chicago. This will make us the most computerized bank north of Chicago."

Directors re-elected are Stack Smith, Hubert Shepeck, Percy Rosenmurgy, Robert E. LeMire, Matt N. Smith, George Douglas and Guy W. Knutson.

The following officers were elected: Matt N. Smith, executive vice president; W. J. Lavolette, vice president and cashier; James L. Schultz, vice president; Paul Lavolette, assistant cashier; William Leiper, assistant cashier; Elmer Bonifas, assistant cashier; and Lowell Hebbard, assistant cashier and manager of the Rapid River branch.

Nelson's Floral Has New Owner

Nelson's Floral & Gifts at 914 Ludington St., established by Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Nelson in 1951, has been sold to Mrs. Carrie D. Larson of Ford River, it was announced today.

Mrs. Larson is the wife of Elmer Larson and the mother of seven children, of whom the youngest is Sgt. Elmer L. Larson, who is now at Fort Benning, Ga., after completing a tour of duty in Vietnam.

"We are keeping the name Nelson's Floral & Gifts in continuing the business," said Mrs. Larson.

She completed American Floral and Art School training in Chicago in October, an intensive three-week course combining work with a variety of materials in the latest designs and arrangements, in preparation for the management of the business enterprise here.

Mrs. Larson is a member of the Gladiolus Society; has a five-year perfect attendance record as an American Sunday School Union teacher at Ford River; and also serves as secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson are now vacationing near Corpus Christi, Texas, and will return to Escanaba next spring. Besides their home in Escanaba they have an island camp in the Hiawatha National Forest, where they have started a wildflower garden.

Nelson was employed with the former Delta Hardware Co. in both retail and wholesale stores for a number of years before he and Mrs. Nelson opened their own business on Ludington St. 15 years ago.

U.P. Growth Given More Power

Dedicate 4th Generator Saturday

Upper Peninsula Generating Co. is meeting the increasing electric power needs of the central and western parts of the Upper Peninsula.

Generating Unit No. 4 at its Presque Isle Station in Marquette will be dedicated by Gov. George Romney at a ceremony at the plant at 11 a.m. Saturday. A noon luncheon program will follow at Northern Michigan University and an "Open House," including plant tours for the public, will be held on Sunday, from 1 to 5 p.m.

A study in 1953 of the Upper Peninsula found that the electric power supply was inadequate for anticipated growth and that this could deter local development. As a solution U.P. Power Co. embarked on a program of expansion.

Related to this was organization of the Upper Peninsula Generating Co. on Nov. 23, 1953 by two local investor-owned companies, Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. and U.P. Power Co. This is one of a few times that an investor-owned utility has entered into an agreement with an industrial concern for the purpose of supplying the electric power needs of both.

Started in 1955

In 1955 the company's Presque Isle Station with a single generating unit of 2,000 kilowatts started providing a new source for much needed electric power. Initially, the plant was capable of providing 153 million kilowatt hours of electricity per year.

In 1962 Unit No. 2 of 37,500 kilowatts capacity was added. Continued growth in the area, including developments in the mining in Marquette County by Cliffs, necessitated in 1964 the addition of Unit No. 3 of 58,400 kilowatts. Unit No. 4, also of 58,400 kilowatt capacity was activated in December 1966 bringing the total capacity to 176,300 kilowatts.

In 11 years Presque Isle Station has expanded its facilities for the supplying of electric power over eight times its original capacity. Total output of the plant today is well over 1,225 million kilowatt hours annually, as compared to the 153 million available in 1955. The two owners share equally in the output of electricity from the plant.

Since 1953, expansion at U.P. Generating Co. Presque Isle Station has played an important part in the improved economy of the region, not only in the large amounts of electric energy that have been made available for industry and business from the plant, but in many other related ways.

$250,000 Payroll

In 1967 over $600,000 will be paid in general property taxes, construction of Unit No. 4 resulting in over $1,250,000 in wages. Approximately 1,400 tons of coal per day will be used at the station, and operating payrolls of $250,000 annually.

Stone & Webster Michigan, Inc. supervised the design and engineering of this generating station.

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. and its predecessor companies have been the pioneers in iron ore mining and shipping in the Lake Superior district since 1850. Cliffs presently operates two underground and four open pit mines on the U.P.'s Marquette Range and four open pit mines on the Mesabi Range in Minnesota. Cliffs pioneered the development of pellets from low-grade Jasper ore in Michigan and now has four pelletizing plants on the Marquette Range producing 8 million tons annually.

Utility Grows

Cliffs also owns approximately 350,000 acres of U.P. timberland with 12,000 acres selectively logged each year. Saw timber is shipped to the company's new sawmill near Munising.

Diversification in the area of the company's forest holdings is now under study.

U.P. Power Co. was organized in 1947 through the merger of three power companies in the northwest portion of the Upper Peninsula. Further expansion came in 1953 and 1958 with the acquisition of three electric systems in the north central and southern sections of the Peninsula.

Along with its rapid growth, the company has up-graded its system with substantial investments in new facilities: a network of more than 600 miles of electric transmission lines from Inland Lake & Stone Co. docks at Gulliver to Copper Harbor; the John H. Warden steam electric generating station at L'Anse; a modern automatic emergency and peaking plant at Houghton.

The company also operates the steam-electric generating plant owned by the City of Escanaba. Presently the Company is serving some 33,000 customers within 11 of the 15 counties of the Upper Peninsula, and employs over 300 people. Its headquarters are at Houghton.

City Pushes Parking Lot Decision

Confronted with a counterproposal for financing a central business district parking lot development and a request for delaying the project, the Escanaba City Council last night pushed resolutely for a decision on the program.

Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe and other Councilmen — with one exception — said there should be as little delay as possible in either moving to establish the public parking lot or abandoning the idea.

Councilman Edward J. Cox was the exception. He opposed setting the date of Feb. 16 for a hearing of objections on the proposed parking lot.

Cox said he thought the Council was "jumping the gun" and voted "no" on the Feb. 16 date for hearing. He wanted to wait two weeks more.

40 Per Cent Plan

Herbert E. Flath, Escanaba property owner, addressed the Council and gave it a counter proposal that represented the thinking of about 20 property owners.

In brief the proposal by the property owners is for a 40 per cent participation, with the city paying 60 per cent of the parking lot project cost of $225,000.

(The Council had offered a proposal to the property owners in the parking lot assessment area for a 75 per cent city participation in financing the lot. The city will light and maintain the lot.)

The proposed lot would be the one-half block in the 1100 and 1200 blocks fronting on 1st Ave. N. The assessment area would be a 600-foot walking distance of the lot. Only commercial properties would be assessed.

Asked 60 Days

Flath told the Council there was the feeling among many of the property owners that the parking lot is not needed at this time. Public parking lots are now used mostly by employees in downtown establishments and the shopper and the retailer does not benefit, he said.

He was concerned about the economic health of the downtown business district and said that it should be improved and developed.

Flath suggested a delay of 60 days, during which the Council would appoint a committee of eight property owners, six tenants, and two professional men to study the problem and confer with the Council on a solution.

Given Priority

The downtown business community lacks organization and leadership and without it there has been not as much retail progress as there might, Flath said.

"We want to keep Escanaba ahead. The town can't stand still," he said.

The suggestion for the downtown parking lot originated with the merchants, not with the Council, and the Council went along to give the downtown study priority in the preparation of a comprehensive plan for the city, Mayor Vanlerberghe said.

"The Council is not on the defensive on this," said the Mayor in recounting the history of the planning program which ultimately is hoped to result in an Urban Renewal project with federal participation.

Councilman George Rusch and Councilman Cecil Chase also argued against further delays, as did Councilman H. George Nelson. To delay would encourage the drift of retailers away from the downtown business district, they felt.

Special Meeting

Owners and occupants of property in the area proposed to be cleared for parking were represented by three men who urged action, so they might know what their future would be. There are others who want a decision, said City Manager George Harvey.

Flath told the Council that he would consult further with the property owners and hoped to have a proposal for discussion with the Council at a special meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 15 in the City Hall.

Meanwhile the City will get information concerning the cost of widening the 1000, 1100 and 1200 blocks of 1st Ave. N. for additional parking; and will ask the Safety Committee to consider the widening proposal.

The Council further discussed the possibility of Urban Renewal and the prospect of removal of some establishments in the Urban Renewal district. The ultimate relocation of Northern Motor Rebuilders, reported as desirous of having room for expansion, and of the Morley-Murphy Co. to a location more accessible to highways, was mentioned.

New Air Service

The Upper Peninsula gets a new schedule of air service starting Monday when Peninsula Air Transport—"PAT"—starts operations from its Escanaba base.

The Upper Peninsula has good air service from North Central Airlines. It has a splendid record of safe and timely service and we would be seriously handicapped in our transportation without it, but it is clued to the Upper Peninsula's passenger potential and its operations have become "feeder line" big, with planes carrying more than 40 passengers.

The size of such operations limit their scheduling more severely than those of airlines like PAT, which are coming into a strong new role in American scheduled air service, filling the blanks in the air transportation map not served by the big jet trunkline carriers on the transcontinental routes and the feeder lines like North Central which feed them passengers from the secondary system.

PAT is not only a new airline, it is also representative of a new dimension of air service, the third stage, the so-called "Commuter Airlines." PAT's inauguration of service is both an indication of our progress in the Upper Peninsula in improving public transportation facilities and of the maturing of our national aviation system.

The Upper Peninsula is at its best in ventures like PAT. We can thank Ralph Norton, a World War II Navy flier who is an executive of Clairmont Transfer Co., the truck line, and his associates for this bold venture to provide a public need. The enterprise is in the Norton family tradition. Ralph Norton's late father, Herbert Norton, developed the big truck line and for years served as a member of the Michigan Aeronautics Commission, a part of the time as its chairman, giving the state invaluable guidance into the Aviation Age.

PAT can thrive and implement its expansion plans to serve more U.P. communities only with public patronage. The Federal Civil Aeronautics Board has a theme: "Use it or lose it." In authorizing federal air service routes, PAT is without any subsidy; it must fly or fail on the revenue it can generate. Initially it will serve Escanaba, Marquette, Iron Mountain and Manistique in the Upper Peninsula, cross Lake Michigan to serve Traverse City, Saginaw and Lansing 5 days a week with a new airliner that flies more than 200 miles an hour and is manned by two pilots.

PAT's schedule is cued into North Central's and it has the blessings and encouragement of the state and federal aviation agencies. Now, with public support for a service that we've been describing as needed for years, it will be off and flying.

Space Quest Deaths

It will be some time before it is known for certain how far the nation's moon program has been set back by the tragic accident at Cape Kennedy—not, in fact, until another capsule is checked out and declared ready to undertake the flight which Apollo I will never make.

But about one thing there is no uncertainty. The effort to reach the moon will not be stopped. Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee would be the first to urge that it must not. They would not want us to mourn them overlong, or even call them heroes. Grissom himself once said, "If we die, we want people to accept it . . . The conquest of space is worth the risk of life."

The people do accept the risk, although they have been profoundly shocked by the terrible price exacted in one sudden flash of fire. Only a few, who may oppose space exploration for entirely other reasons than its danger, call for a slowing down or a halt because of what happened to Apollo I.

The people also know that the safety of the astronauts has always been the overriding concern of everyone connected with the space program and that it will continue to be so. Being first to the moon is not worth the life of one man.

Ironically, a tragedy makes us realize what capable hands that program has been in. We begin to appreciate more fully not only the skill and bravery of all the astronauts who have gone into space but also the care and dedication of the hundreds of men on the ground who have brought them back safely each time.

We had thought that an accident, if there must be one, would occur in actual flight, especially during the critical moments of blast-off and re-entry. We realize now that every aspect of a space shot is incredibly complex and hemmed around with dangers, even checkouts and simulated launchings.

In the light of this tragedy, when we remember the seven Mercury and 12 Gemini capsules and their rockets that functioned without serious difficulty and the astronauts who successfully flew them, we know that something more than luck has guided the space program all these years.

When we recall the fatalities that filled the early days of aviation and reflect that even today men die testing conventional aircraft, (three other astronauts have perished in routine airplane flights), the safety record of the space program is amazing.

Reason tells us that other men will die, for space exploration is in its beginnings. The only way these deaths could be avoided would be for us to turn our eyes away from the stars and deny that element in the human spirit which has always impelled men to dare the challenge of the unknown.

This we cannot do. Grissom, White and Chaffee could not do it. We honor their memory and their sacrifice by continuing the work they did not live to complete.

Yesterday was celebrated as Candlemas Day. Wax candles were burned in church services and in the homes of members of the congregation. It was also the day on which the groundhog supposedly comes out of hibernation; to remain out if spring is near or to return if cold weather is to continue.

In one of the most exciting basketball games of the season staged at the high school gymnasium, the freshmen girls defeated the sophomore girls by a close score of 7 to 6.

Heat's On Detroit To Make Autos Thiefproof

By TOM NOLAN
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The automobile industry, already reeling from a batch of safety standards which would require substantial design changes in new cars, appears to be in for another blow from — of all things — President Johnson's newly declared war on crime.

The big rub for Detroit this time will stem from proposals to make automobiles more theft-proof.

The report of the National Crime Commission, due for release on Feb. 19, will include a recommendation to change the ignition system to make car stealing more difficult.

In recent auto theft hearings before the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee, three of the four witnesses called for legislation to require manufacturers to adopt anti-theft devices on new cars.

Car stealing is the nation's costliest crime against property. Losses to the public and the insurance industry are about $500 million a year.

Final figures for last year are not yet available, but it is almost certain that the 1966 auto theft figure will pass the half-million mark. FBI figures for the first nine months indicate a 10 per cent jump in the number of car thefts from 1965.

Every year, the auto theft rate increases faster than either the number of vehicles manufactured or the population. Perhaps the most serious aspect of the crime is the fact that it's a young man's ball game. Offenders under 18 account for 64 per cent of all car theft arrests; persons under 25 are responsible for nearly 90 per cent of the total arrests.

Many of them are repeaters. Though the subcommittee examined many proposals for reducing the crime, its first round of hearings stressed the need for design changes in new cars. Further hearings will be held in February.

Among the proposed anti-theft devices — steering wheel and transmission locks, hood locks, armor-plated ignition systems, double latches for ventilation windows and recessed door handles.

The industry, currently at odds with the National Traffic Safety Agency over 23 safety standards for 1968 cars, is reluctant to discuss further design changes which may not even be put into effect.

But some industry sources privately point out that some of the anti-theft devices could conflict with the safety standards which are eventually adopted.

A steering wheel lock, for example, would make the wheel and the column more rigid, could cause serious knee injuries in a crash. Recessed door handles could cause the door to spring open from an impact on the opposite side. Armor-plated ignition systems could be more likely to short out.

Other areas examined in the Senate hearings:

Master keys: A set of four or five keys which will open most cars in a particular model series (such as the 1963 Chevrolet Impala). Master keys are sold via mail order by firms which advertise in national magazines. Some authorities estimate that 15 per cent of the cars stolen are taken by the use of master keys.

A 14-year-old arrested in New York City had a key ring containing more than 100 such keys. Police theorized he could unlock practically any car in the city, including every police vehicle.

Unlocked cars: FBI figures indicate that more than 40 per cent of the autos stolen are left unattended with keys in the ignition. The National Auto Theft Bureau estimates that approximately 80 per cent of the cars stolen are left by the owners with the doors unlocked.

Several cities, including Chattanooga, Dallas and San Francisco, have greatly reduced auto thefts through local "Lock

Your Car" campaigns. Other communities have made it an offense (similar to a parking violation) to leave a car unlocked and unattended. In these areas, auto thefts have decreased by as much as 45 per cent.

Several anti-theft devices have already been incorporated by the industry. General Motors has modified Chevrolet and Buick ignition systems to make it impossible for the key to be removed without locking the ignition. Ford added a double-edged key, making it more difficult for thieves to open the lock with a "jiggler" key.

But to many authorities, these steps are not enough. The general reaction in Washington is that the President's tough cry to curb crime in his State of the Union message may have scared Detroit more than it did criminals.

ELECTION

As one who spent several years on our local Board of Education, here, at Hermansville, and one who has favored school reorganization for many years, I feel constrained to set down a few remarks, for what they're worth, relative to the proposed consolidation of school districts in North Menominee County.

To most people in our area, it must be obvious that steps have to be taken to improve the educational picture for the children and young people concerned, if for no other reason.

However, it is one thing to realize this need, and quite another matter to implement it. Proper planning and thoughtful consideration should be prime elements in any consolidation attempt, and should be exercised prior to direct action towards consolidation.

This approach has not been manifest in the present situation. For one reason or another there seems to be a desire on the part of some to plunge pell mell into a consolidation program which no one can honestly say will solve the problem.

For example, what effect will county reorganization, have on the situation? Currently, there are substantial inequities in assessed evaluations in the various school districts. At present, no one really knows, and few apparently, really care, what physical plant requirements will be needed. Little thought has been given to what impact a broadened parochial school program would have on the consolidated district.

In addition, it seems apparent that some people in the southern extremities of the proposed district would prefer to join the Stephenson District. It might very well be that the pupil density could be made less than desirable. It would indeed be frustrating itself to discover that ten years or so, hence we could be faced with another school crisis because we failed to give complete consideration to the problem now.

No real attempt has been made, on the part of the three districts concerned, to implement a full study of the educational needs, financial requirements or operational requirements. In the past, this state of affairs was largely because a majority of the people concerned in the entire area have had little interest in school consolidation for one reason or another.

Today, this apathy no longer exists. The State of Michigan has made it quite plain that steps must be taken at the local level or else the State will step in and take action with a result possibly less than satisfactory to all.

We have all been put on notice, but for the time being, we will have a couple of years, at least, in which to work out an optimum plan educationally and an equitable plan for financing the program. This does not mean, of course, that we should wait one year and ten months before commencing constructive action.

Thoughtful and considered opinion should indicate that the consolidation program as presently outlined should be discussed on Feb. 6, and immediately work started to set up a well-thought out solution fair for all.

INSIGHT

All animals (including deer) are best adapted to a particular habitat, and when these habitats are destroyed or change an animal's population slowly declines.

The basic principles of ecology apply to deer management. One of these principles is that no organism can overtax its environment and maintain its abundance.

Most game biologists will agree that the chief limiting factors affecting the Michigan deer herd today are: (1) winter food shortage (2) snow depth (3) cold winter temperatures.

Deer are browsers, feeding on young saplings, grasses, cedar, and various shrubs. Today, our problem is that most of our deer habitat consists of nearly mature stands of hardwood, great lakes, and coniferous forests.

Such a habitat does not support a large deer herd. I advocate the turning back of ecological succession to the younger or seral stages. Some of the mature stands of timber in the deer yards should be cut, preferably in the winter, thus supplying instant food. The new growth will supply even more food in two to three years.

Success in such a venture requires much study, cooperation and money, but does not bring the quick results demanded by our sportsmen. Habitat improvement is a slow way but in the long run it's the only way. If an ample breeding stock is protected and no extreme predator or parasite problem arises the deer herd should increase proportionately to food increase.

Few people realize that the deer herd must be cropped to prevent over taxation of their environment. To kill individuals to maintain a population sounds crazy, but it is a wise philosophy if done at the right time. Protection of the herd is futile if there isn't enough food to support the existing number of deer. The "Buck Law" was a good thing years ago, but that is not the case today.

The winter concentration of deer is called "yarding" and the habitat chosen is called a deer yard. Today I visited such a deer yard and I found it in very poor condition. The yard is located near my home in Rock. The cedar was far out of reach and young growth was buried under a foot of snow. The deer were already feeding on balsam, which is considered a starvation food.

All sportsmen who are concerned about our deer should visit a deer yard in February or March, that is, if you can get through the deep snow. Perhaps you may gain a "bit of insight" which is far better than "hindsight."

I live in Rock and I am enrolled at Northern Michigan University. Presently I am a senior majoring in biology.

Certain bridge writers have been highly critical of American slam bidding. We have never belonged to this anvil chorus and have seen no evidence that top level American bidding is inferior to anything except possibly that of Italy's Blue Team that has beaten everyone in the world for the last ten years. Therefore it is most refreshing to be able to show a hand from the American team trials where all five pairs easily reached a grand slam in hearts, in spite of the fact that the opponents held an ace, a king and a couple of queens.

The bidding at all tables started with two clubs. This is our catch-all forcing bid. Every South player made the positive response of two hearts and every North jumped right to five no-trump.

This bid is known as the grand slam force and while it is used all over the world it is as American as apple pie. It was invented in the early days of contract by the late Ely Culbertson. It tells partner to bid a grand slam in the agreed suit if he holds two of the three top honors. In this case the jump to five no-trump set hearts as the agreed suit.

In modern dress this convention has added ramifications. Thus, South could respond with six clubs, six diamonds or six hearts if he did not hold two of the three top honors. In general the higher the bid the better the hand so that six hearts would show a six-card suit and one of the two top honors; six diamonds a five-card suit and one of the two top honors and six clubs

Well-Trained Child Is Most Welcomed

Dear Ann Landers: I am still boiling over that letter from the woman who had a few dozen words for mothers who take their children to the beauty shop.

Nobody wants children. The super-market managers complain because they knock over the merchandise and fool with the carts. Movies don't want them because they are noisy. Restaurant people hate to see them come in. Many apartment ads say "No Children." Several fancy resorts print on their brochures, "Peaceful and quiet. Adults Only."

What in the world are people with children supposed to do—keep them in the closet until they are 18?

I have seen some of these youngsters whose parents never took them anywhere. They are like savages and it's not their fault. Ann, they've never been out before. Please print this letter as a rebuttal.—PRO SMALL FRY

Dear Pro: The "little savages" you see running around in beauty shops, super-markets, and restaurants are not wild because they have never been out before—many of them have been out a good bit. They are wild because they are underprivileged. No one has taken the time and trouble to train them to behave properly.

Children do not belong everywhere—even well-trained children. But a youngster who is mannerly and well behaved is welcomed almost anywhere.

Dear Ann Landers: I had been dating a very nice chap for several months. We both attend Hendrix College.

Last week my boy friend came to the dorm and asked me to go for a short ride before supper. I said yes and away we went. Half an hour later I heard some stirring in the back seat of the car and was shocked to find that a girl from the dorm had sneaked in to the car and was lying on the floor, covered with a blanket.

When we uncovered her she laughingly said it was a gag and she couldn't understand why we were annoyed with her.

What do you think of a gag like this? Are we humorless and stuffy as she insists?—CONWAY, ARK.

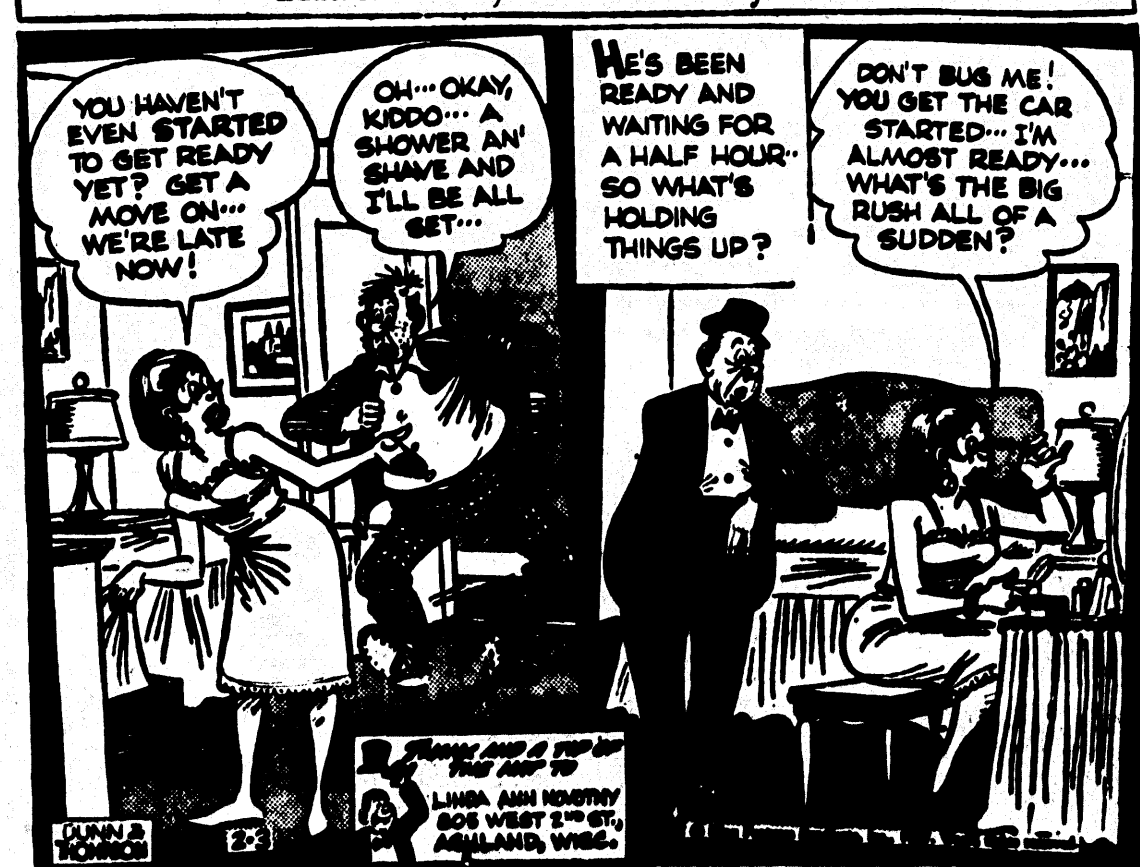

Dear Ark: Gag my foot. The

TWO-FAMILY CHARMER: Placement of the second-floor apartment in back of the main roof gives this two-family house the front-view appearance of a delightful one-story home. Cedar shingles are combined with stone veneer for a look of warmth and comfort.

Charmer For Two Families

By ANDY LANG

Many residential communities have relaxed zoning restrictions to permit two-family houses that conform to certain rules on appearance and construction.

Architect Rudolph A. Matern has created for House of the Week a two-family structure designed not only to meet such standards, but to be an aesthetic asset to the area in which it is built. Even more, it is a two-family house that doesn't make the tenant feel like a poor relation. This has been done visually by giving the house a charming one-story look from the front—and practically by providing living features that a second-floor family usually doesn't enjoy.

There is a single family entrance, so that the family upstairs doesn't have to go around to the side or rear to reach the stairs leading to its apartment. However, there is an enclosed stair to the second floor with a door at the bottom for total privacy. The stairway is open at the top to provide light and eliminate a closed-in feeling. A private foyer on the second floor gives a homey atmosphere, not always the case when the living quarters begin directly at the top of the stair. There is a decorative brick wall in this foyer which actually is the rear of the fireplace chimney, since this second-floor family has its own living room fireplace. A large clothes closet in the foyer always comes in handy.

One of the big extras for the upstairs tenant is a balcony off the living room and a large deck terrace off the dining area. Since the balcony and the terrace blend together with no divider, it is possible to go onto the balcony from the living room and directly to the terrace. The entrance to the terrace from the dining area is through sliding glass doors. A most convenient and luxurious arrangement that few second-floor families have!

The second floor is, of course, a complete apartment, with 733 square feet of living area, not including the balcony and terrace. It has a living room, dining sector, kitchen, foyer, full bathroom, bedroom and dressing alcove. In addition to the features already mentioned, there is a private stairway from the upper deck to the garage and a separate door to the basement for the use of laundry equipment, shop and storage. The basement can be partitioned in two for separate quarters for playroom or other activities.

Downstairs, there is all the livability provided on the second floor, but with additional space for a larger family. The fire-placed living room, 20' long is to the left of a foyer which is separate from the main foyer that accommodates the residents and guests of the families on both floors. The dining room has sliding glass doors leading to a covered porch which is adjacent to a terrace. A combined kitchen-family room is 17' 4" long and provides plenty of space for a breakfast table as well as the usual complement of modern appliances.

A bathroom, three closets and the stairways to the second floor and the basement all serve to separate the two bedrooms from the rest of the house for a full measure of privacy and quiet.

Rental of the second floor is, of course, a good way to augment the family income. But a large family which likes the layout of Design G-72 could have the builder make two bedrooms upstairs, turning the kitchen area into a den or sewing room, and the dining section into a dressing alcove with closets. The family then would have the advantages of the upper balcony, terrace and other features originally designed into the house to make living truly comfortable for a tenant.

G-72 STATISTICS

Design G-72 is a two-family house, with a living room, dining room, family room-kitchen, two bedrooms and a bath on the main floor, totaling 1328 square feet of livable area. The second-floor has 773 square feet, divided into a living room, kitchen, dinette, bedroom, bathroom and dressing alcove. Both floors have plenty of outdoor living space and each has a private foyer in addition to a large foyer that serves the two families. The over-all dimensions of 50' 2" by 58' 9" include the porch, terraces and two-car garage.

Alyce Krause Bride Of Richard Jacobson

Miss Alyce J. Krause of Bark River became the bride of Robert Paul Jacobson during a double ring ceremony performed Saturday, Jan. 28 at St. Michael's Church in Marquette.

Officiating at the nuptials before an altar adorned with bouquets of white gladiolas and yellow pompons was the Rev. Terry Velair.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Krause of Bark River and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Fritz F. Jacobson, 1521 Fifth Ave., Marquette.

Attending the bride were Miss Karen Kline of Bark River as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Krause and Miss Linda Krause, sisters of the bride.

Satin Peau de Soie
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of Empress satin peau de soie and imported French Chantilly lace styled with a modified scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The A-line skirt was fashioned with a chapel length train. The gown was designed and sewn by the bride.

Mothers' Attire
For attending her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride selected a three piece suit of emerald green brocade with brown accessories. Mrs. Jacobson wore a gold knit dress with gold accessories and both mothers were presented orchid corsages.

The wedding reception was held in the Great Lakes Rooms of Northern Michigan University immediately following the ceremony.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination the newlyweds will reside at 412 Pine St. in Marquette.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba Area High School and Northern Michigan University. She is presently teaching at the Sandy Knoll Elementary School in Marquette. Mr. Jacobson is a graduate of John D. Pierce High School, Marquette and is attending NMU.

MANISTIQUE

Corrections Work Talk At Club Meet

Observing their first guest night in many years, members of the Manistique Women's Club Tuesday heard a talk on the Michigan Department of Corrections by Dr. Duane L. Waters.

Dr. Waters was appointed by Governor Romney in 1964 and was re-appointed in January, 1967 to the 5-man commission. It operates under the bureau of community service and is one of 20 branches of state government. It is concerned with rehabilitation and custodial care of adults and juveniles sentenced by courts. The annual budget is $21 million.

Mrs. John Paul Quick introduced the speaker for the program in Augustana hall.

In the business meeting, Mrs. Marvin Frederickson welcomed guests, Mrs. Keith Bunday asked further contributions in the clothing drive for Viet Nam be made in the next few days, and the resignation of Mrs. Samuel Gesko was accepted.

Mrs. William Hentschell was named chairman of the nominating committee and will prepare a slate preparatory to the annual election in March.

Music was provided by Miss Paula Rosebush who sang three selections, accompanied by Karen Weber at the piano.

The hostess committee under chairmanship of Mrs. William Hood and Mrs. Fred Lesica served refreshments. A Valentine motif was used. White tapers and a small bowl of chrysanthemums graced the serving table with its deep ruby cloth.

Other members of the hostess committee were Mrs. Edward Jackson, C. S. Johnson, Clarence Johnson, G. S. Johnson, Hudson Johnson, David Kelly, Hugh Kelly, Milton Keteik, Karl Krumrey, Leonard LaFave, Paul Larson, Earl LeBrasseur, J. L. LeDuc, Elmer Lundstrom, Arthur F. Hall, Donald Holobik and Miss Rose LaChapelle.

The next meeting is Feb. 28 at 2:30 p.m., with a program presented by the Drama committee under direction of Mrs. W. L. Norton.

The Escanaba Redwings will be bucking long odds when they invade the Menominee gym for their important Great Northern Conference contest tonight. The Maroons are practically unbeatable at home. In fact, Menominee teams have a 21-1 record on their home floor over the past three seasons. Escanaba's home court record in that span is 16-6.

Hermanville's 79-76 upset at the hands of the Carney Wolves was a costly one for Coach Don Hill's Redwings. It knocked them out of first place in the Big Seven Conference race. Channing took over the top spot with its 7-1 record. Hermanville is 6-1 and the teams clash tonight in a blue chip game that could well determine the conference championship. The teams split in two previous meetings, Hermanville winning 76-72 in regular league competition and Channing winning, 74-62, in the Big Seven Holiday tournament.

Ewen, knocked out of the undefeated ranks by Republic last week, took it out on the hapless Mercer Tigers, 107-33, in a Porcupine Mountain Conference game this week. Ken Sain, Terry Conrad and Doug Johnson teamed up for 65 points as the Bulldogs ran their season record to 10-1. They are 9-0 in their conference.

Coach John Butrymowicz's Holy Name eagles are having trouble putting all their talents together this season. The Crusaders committed 20 errors while losing to Marquette Beraga by a 51-48 margin last week. Against Manitowish this week they reduced their turnovers to a respectable nine, but shot a lowly 28 percent from the field while bowing, 55-54. The Crusader coach plans to work Angie Janke, a lanky junior, into the lineup to get more height in his front line.

Lloyd Eaton, coach of the University of Wyoming's 1966 Sun Bowl victors, will be the main speaker at Alma College's second annual All-Sports Reunion at Lansing Thursday, Feb. 16. Eaton was head football coach at Northern for one year, 1956, before joining the Wyoming staff as defensive line coach.

Coach Stu Smith's Crystal Falls cagers stayed right on Iron Mountain's heels in the conference race by beating Stambaugh, 77-59. Gary Secheck had another big night for the Trojans with 21 points and 20 rebounds.

Following their narrow decision over Holy Name, the Marquette Baraga Royals bowed to Negaunee St. Paul, 58-54, in a strange game. Marquette Baraga outscored St. Paul by nine field goals, 24 to 15, but the Royals were able to add only six free throws off a dozen enemy fouls. St. Paul paraded to the line 41 times and came away with 28 points.

Coach Stan Albeck's Northern Wildcats had a good night at the charity stripe as they topped Michigan Tech, 56-78. Northern converted 24 of 29 opportunities. Two of the misses were by Con Yagodzinski who scored a dozen points. The Wildcats are home again this weekend, hosting Calvin College tonight and Minnesota-Duluth Saturday night.

A pair of free throws by Bob Haralson in the final seconds of action gave Lake Linden a 73-72 decision over Dollar Bay in a Copper Country Conference thriller. Haralson, one of the Upper Peninsula's leading scorers, exploded for his best night of the season with 38 points.

Don Beeson continued his hot shooting for Coach Bruce Warren's Anglers this week, pumping in 24 points in a 78-55 verdict over White Pine. Trout Creek, undefeated in regular season action last year, now has a 16-2 record.

Rosaline Herrick, bowling in the Gladstone Wednesday Women's league, came up with a nifty 178 all spare game last week.

Brian Quintette, 6 feet 3 inch junior who has been a varsity player at Iron Mountain for three years, came up with 33 points to lead the Mountaineers to an 88-78 victory over Norway in Menominee Range Conference action. The Mountaineers lead the Range race with a 7-1 record, followed by the improving Crystal Falls Trojans with a 7-3 mark.

News 'N Notes On NFL Action

By The Associated Press

The latest word on the pro football draft is that it probably will be held in the third week of March after both the National and American football leagues have had separate meetings.

The NFL, which struggled unsuccessfully to come up with a formula for the common draft last month in Los Angeles, will hold its annual meeting starting Feb. 20 in Honolulu.

The AFL will meet at Miami Beach, the week of Feb. 13.

In the meantime, the college seniors who have finished their careers can sit and wait for No. 4 date has been set for the stocking of the New Orleans franchise with NFL veterans.

Vince Lombardi and his former assistants soon will have the NFL locked up, if Vince does not already have complete control.

Bill Austin left Lombardi, wandered to Los Angeles and then came up with the Pittsburgh job last season. Norb Hecker graduated (if that is the right word) to Atlanta as head coach, taking with him Tom Fears from Lombardi's staff. New Fears has become the new head man of the New Orleans Saints.

The resignation of Red Cochrane, Green Bay backfield coach, leaves Lombardi with one job to fill. He should be able to take his pick of the men willing to direct that Packer offense.

The New York Giants still are losing. Dick Lynch decided to retire the other day and Jeff Smith, rookie linebacker, underwent surgery for a knee injury. Latest reports from Earl Morrall are that the veteran quarterback still has a cast on his right wrist. Clint Jones, Michigan State running back, could be the club's top draft pick.

Former U.P. Prep Stars Help Northern Comeback

MARQUETTE — A quartet of former Upper Peninsula high school stars is making a key contribution to the recent success of Northern Michigan University's basketball team.

All four, senior forward Con Yagodzinski of Escanaba, senior guard Bill Koski of Champion, junior guard Les Coduti of Ishpeming and sophomore guard Dom Jacobetti of Negaunee, have been starters at Northern Michigan, after a dismal 1-6 start, has broken loose for six straight wins and a 7-6 record just past the midway point in the season.

Yagodzinski, the Wildcats' 6-5 co-captain who was an all-star at Escanaba Holy Name, is currently Northern's number two scorer and total rebound leader.

His 187 points, a 14.3 average, has moved Yago into the number three position on NMU's list of all-time career scorers with 897. He trails only All-Americans Gene Summers (1,328) and Bob Armstead (1,257).

At his present pace, Yagodzinski will become the third player in Northern history to score 1,000 career points.

Koski, the 5-11 outside shooter who led Champion High School to basketball prominence, is Northern's floor leader and co-captain. Like Yagodzinski, Koski is in his third season as a Wildcat starter.

The take-charge man in NMU's patterned style of play, Koski directs traffic when the Wildcats switch to their so-called peekaboo offense, the key to a six game winning string that saw Northern upset nationally ranked Pan American College, 65-47.

Currently Koski is sidelined by a nagging leg injury, but is hopeful of being back on the court in time for Northern's Feb. 6 game at Ohio State.

Coduti, a 5-10 jumping jack from Ishpeming High School, has come into his own in recent games after breaking into the starting lineup in January.

Deadly with his high, arching jump shots from either sideline, Coduti led NMU's scoring with 18 points in the win over Pan American, and ranks as the top shooter on the club with a mark of .487 from the field.

Jacobetti, a six-footer who is the all-time peninsula prep scoring champion with 2,140 points at Negaunee St. Paul, moved from an understudy role into the starting lineup when Koski was sidelined.

He promptly paced the Wildcats to a 90-78 victory over Michigan Tech, scoring 23 points, the best of his collegiate career.

"We're very pleased with the play of these Upper Peninsula boys," said Stan Albeck, now in his 10th year as head coach at Northern.

"Yagodzinski certainly must rank as one of our all-time greats with his scoring and rebounding efforts, and Koski, with his steady play and cool head, has been an excellent leader in our controlled offense."

"I'm also happy with the progress made by Coduti and Jacobetti. They've given us added strength at the guards when we needed it the most. It's especially encouraging to know that we'll have Les for another season and Dominic for two more years."

Ineligible Athlete Makes Super Mess In Upper Peninsula

LANSING (AP) — The Upper Peninsula football standings and championship are in a super mess because a Menominee player falsified his age.

Menominee won the Great Northern Conference championship and also was voted top team of the straits by Upper Peninsula sports writers.

Then it was found Joseph Gyp was 19 last summer—above the eligibility age limit of 18—when he played both football and basketball.

Gyp was a versatile tailback, end and defenseman of the Menominee Association, said Menominee High principal Gary Burley reported that Gyp admitted falsifying his age on his enrollment sheet and other records. The principal said the youth did it so he would be able to compete his senior year, Forsythe reported.

Forsythe said the association's executive committee ruled that Menominee must forfeit all non-league games. But in the case of league games, the Great Northern Conference was told, the conference must decide.

Escanaba High was the runner-up in the league, losing only to Menominee. If all the league games, or just that one, are ordered forfeited, Escanaba will be conference champion.

John Butrymowicz, athletic director of Escanaba Holy Name High and league president, said he plans to call an early meeting of league officials to make the decision.

"Frankly, I don't know what we'll do," he said. "We're a new league, and have never faced the situation before."

"In 90 per cent of similar cases, the leagues have decided to declare the games forfeited," said Forsythe.

"But in some cases," he said, "There are extenuating circumstances. That's why we leave it up to the leagues."

"In this case," Forsythe said, "the school was not a party to the violation. They made a natural and honest mistake in going by the records."

Gyp also played basketball before his age was discovered on a team that currently has a 7-4 record. He played in five of the winning games, it was reported.

The status of Menominee's basketball record similarly is up in the air.

Red Wings Nip Boston Bruins

DETROIT (AP)—"I was glad when the buzzer went, I'll tell you that," said Detroit Red Wing Manager Coach Sid Abel. "We won it, that's the main thing, but we won't play like that and win many," he said after the Wings nipped the Boston Bruins 4-3 in the only National Hockey League game Thursday night.

Gordie Howe scored the first goal in the second period while Detroit was short-handed and started the Red Wings going. Ron Murphy tied it in the second period, but Dean Prentice put Detroit back ahead before the end of the stanza.

Alex Delvecchio and Ray Cullen then scored for the Wings 11 seconds apart early in the third period and it looked like a runaway.

But Ted Green scored with a slap shot on a power-play and Bob Dillabough talked on a break-in in the final three minutes, and Detroit had a cliff-hanger on its hands.

In the final minute the last-place Bruins pulled netminder Ed Johnston for a sixth attacker and buzzed around the Detroit net. Delvecchio, however, saved the game by snagging the puck and racing to mid-ice. He fired at the empty net and narrowly missed as time ran out.

Halas Observes 72nd Birthday

CHICAGO (AP) — George Halas, leaving Father Time in the starting blocks, gingerly celebrated his 72nd birthday, declaring retirement is furthestmost in his mind.

He spent his birthday Thursday in the 20th strategy session with his assistant coaches since his Chicago Bears closed the 1966 National Football League season with a disappointing 5-7 record.

"The thing I would really like to celebrate is a championship," said Papa Bear. "We need every minute of work we can do for 1967, birthdays included."

Halas was among those honored Thursday night at the annual Chicago Old Timers' Baseball Association dinner, at which he received a special achievement award.

"I got the recognition on the basis of my hitting average in 1919 during a brief time as outfielder for the New York Yankees," Halas said.

"I hated either .099 or .092—can't remember which."

Northern Tilt On Television Saturday Night

MARQUETTE — Northern Michigan University's Saturday night basketball game with the University of Minnesota-Duluth will be telecast live by WNNM-TV, Northern's educational television outlet.

It will be the third consecutive year an NMU home game has been offered to cable television viewers around the peninsula. Northern's meeting with UMD two seasons ago was the first game telecast, while last year's meeting with Michigan Tech was also put on the cable.

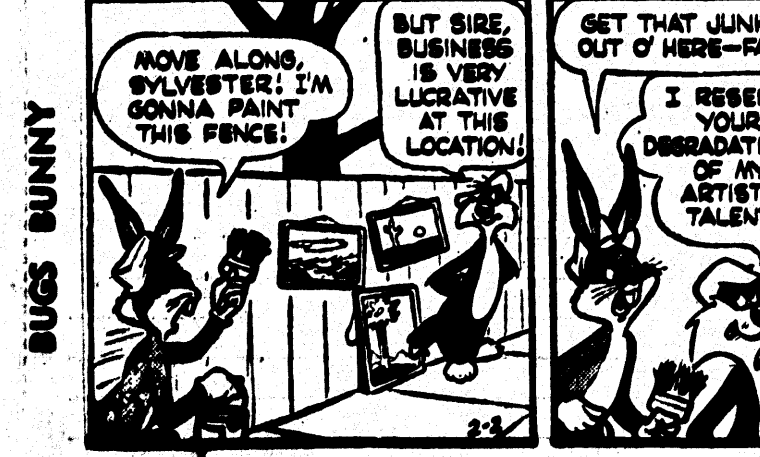

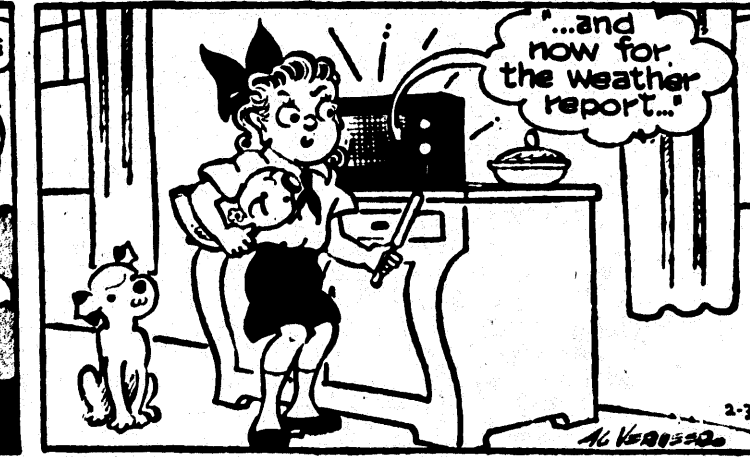

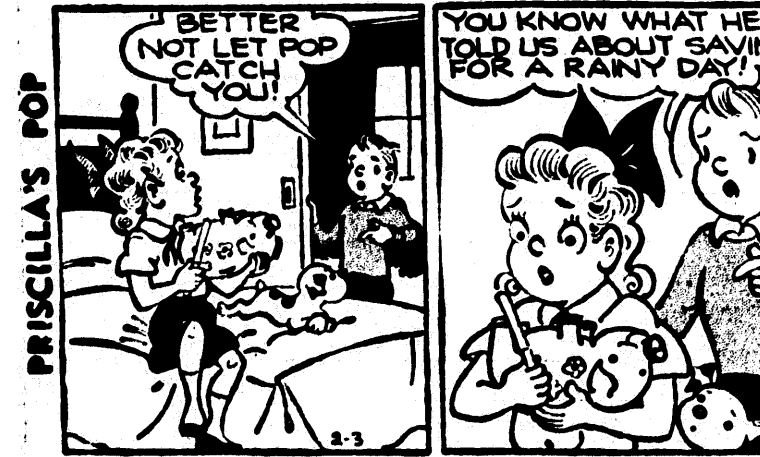

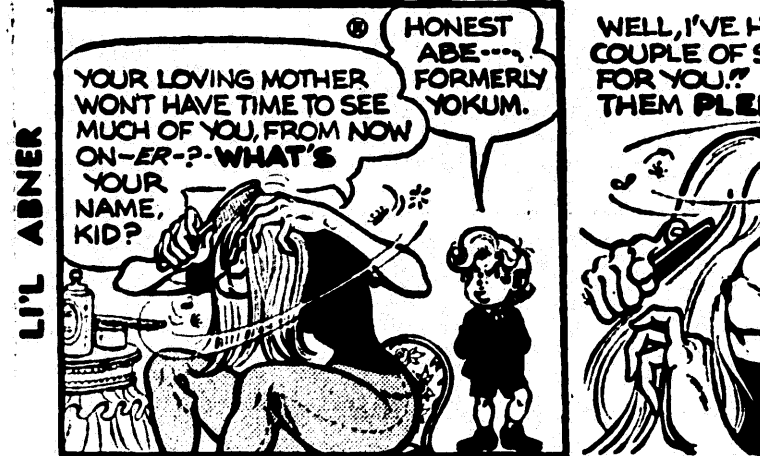

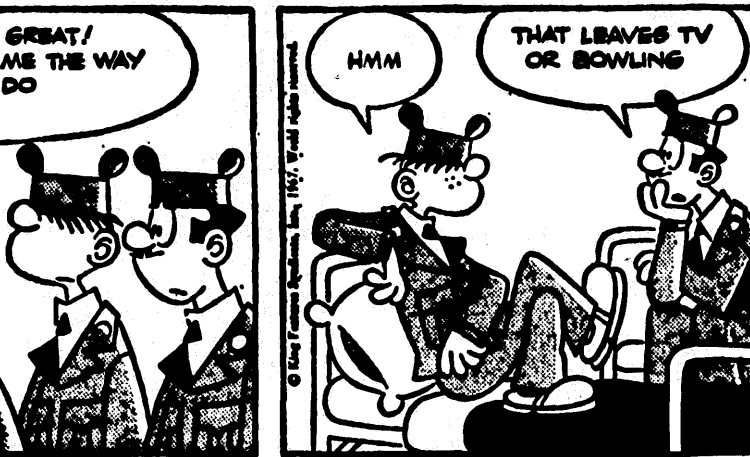

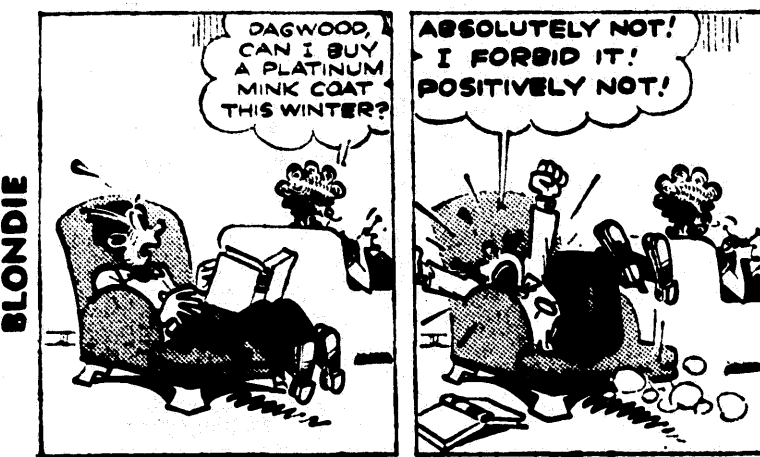

The telecast will begin at 7:45 p.m. EST with a pre-game program featuring Wildcat head basketball coach Stan Albeck and sports information director Gil Heard, who will also serve as commentator during the play-by-play.

Aids Injured Boy; Teacher Honored

His efforts helped save the life of a little boy, and for this Robert Slade, 524 S. 15th St., driver education teacher, received praise and a certificate of commendation at the meeting of the City Council Thursday night.

Jimmy Meyer, 4, now recovered from his injuries, and his mother, Mrs. Robert Meyer, were at the meeting to join in applauding as Slade was presented with the certificate by Mayor Harold Vanierberghe, acting on behalf of the City Council.

Jimmy was critically injured on July 18, 1966, when he was struck by a car while playing along Old State Road. Slade gave first aid and otherwise assisted the injured boy. Authorities credited him with prompt action that saved the boy's life.

Slade in accepting the commendation said that he hoped the incident will impress upon motorists the need for safe driving on our highways. He presented Jimmy with a gift of roses for his mother.

Fair Building
The Council in other business received bids for codifying city ordinances, and accepted the $4,850 low bid of the Municipal Code Corp., Tallahassee, Fla., to supply the city with 100 copies. City Manager Harvey said the codification makes the charter and ordinances readily available for use.

By resolution the Council reaffirmed the city's interest in participating in plans for a new U.P. State Fair exhibition building. The Council directed the resolution to the Fair Board and state officials, stating that the inclusion of community use facilities (specifically a skating rink) would be desirable and that the city would expect to finance those portions used by the community.

The resignation of Ray Fish from the Citizens Airport Study Committee was received with expressions of regret. Fish, who is transferred to Japan and the foreign division of Harnischfeger Corp., was commended for his service to the city.

Time Hearing
Operation Action was commended by the Council for its programs of benefit to the U.P. and it was suggested that additional printings of "Good Life in the Upper Peninsula" be made for distribution.

The Council indicated that it wants to have Escanaba represented at a hearing on a time change for the U.P., to be held at Iron Mountain. Now on Eastern Standard Time, Escanaba residents a few years ago voted to stay that way the year around by a majority of 399.

"Perhaps we should point out that Escanaba is a home rule city and we would like to set our own clocks ourselves," said Mayor Vanierberghe.

A Civil Service ruling relative to the rehiring of former city employees was adopted by the Council.

With the concurrence of the Council, Don Guindon, Escanaba city clerk, accepted the general chairmanship of the U.P. Legion convention, to be held here June 15-18.

Need Court Approval To Use Bonifas Fund

Escanaba's much discussed recreation building project received another going-over at the City Council meeting Thursday night, with these major developments:

1—Circuit Court would probably need to approve the expenditure of approximately $300,000 in Catherine Bonifas Funds, administered by the Councilmen as trustees.

2—The will of Mrs. Bonifas specified the funds be left to the people of Escanaba and it might not be legally used to finance a facility to serve the recreational interests of the area.

3—The question of recreation building site may have to be settled by a survey conducted by the Jaycees, or an advisory vote ordered by the Council.

The discussion of the recreation building site and facility was opened by Ronald Lankford at the Council meeting last night. Lankford is a member of the Planning Commission.

Site Discussed

Mayor Harold Vanierberghe told him that the Council has hired Arntzen & Arntzen architects to design and make cost estimates for a recreation building (with and without a swimming pool) for the water tower site.

Lankford wanted to know what the Council is doing about recommendations that the Area Public High School site be used, rather than the water tower site.

Councilman Edward J. Cox, who with Councilman H. George Nelson are outspoken in favor of the water tower site, said that was a decision to be made by the Council.

Robert Barron, a citizen, said the citizens want a swimming pool in the recreation building and the Planning Commission favors a "recreational complex" in the area of Holy Name and Escanaba High schools.

Has "Master Plan"

Councilman Nelson said the Council selected the site on recommendations of the Planning Commission and Recreation Board and "then everybody else is getting into it again." The Area Public School Board favors a swimming pool at the Area High School but it has no funds to participate in the cost, Nelson said.

Councilman George Rusch said that Paul Vardigan, city recreation director, has prepared "a master plan" for the recreational complex at the high school. He thought the Council should consider it.

Councilman Cecil Chase brought up the matter of Bay de Noc Community College relocation to the area west of the Area High School, as suggested by the Planning Commission, and at his request the Council adopted a motion asking that the Council and College Board meet in a discussion of future site for the College in Escanaba.

(The Planning Commission has filed with the Council a report advocating that the college be located where it will be possible for the college, as well as the high schools, use the proposed swimming pool and recreational facilities.)

Will Specify Use

Dr. A. A. Gossan, former Recreation Board member, advocated the Area High, Holy Name High School site where the Community College and the general public can also use the proposed recreational facility. (The Community College dis-

Carbon Monoxide Cause Of Death, Report Indicates

The death of Elmer J. Swanson Jr., 45, at his home at 1028 Washington Ave., was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning, it is indicated by reports received today from the State Laboratory at Lansing.

Prosecutor Nicholas P. Chapek said that he was told that a considerable percentage of carbon monoxide was found in blood samples analyzed at the laboratory.

Mr. Swanson's body was found slumped in the front seat of an automobile in the garage at the Swanson home about 1 a.m. Jan. 31.

There was nothing in the reports of the investigating officers to indicate other than that the death was accidental, the prosecutor said.

In Service

Marine Private First Class George H. Martinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilding R. Martinson of 980 Sheridan Road, Escanaba, has completed a 15-day refresher training and processing cycle with the Staging Battalion at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif. The training stressed the principles of small unit tactics, with particular emphasis placed on the fundamentals of scouting, patrolling, and land navigation. Marines completing this training are assigned to combat units overseas.

Card of Thanks

Sheehan
I wish to express my sincere thanks to all those who expressed their sympathy during my bereavement, the sudden death of my husband, Stanley. I wish to thank my neighbors, his fellow union palbearers, the American Legion members, my dear brothers and sisters and to Fr. Norbert Freiburger for his comforting words. Your kindness and appreciation will always be remembered.
Mrs. Beatrice Sheehan

In Memoriam

Valencic

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Andrew Valencic Sr., who passed away three years ago, Feb. 3, 1964.
We do not need a special day, To bring him to our minds. The days we do not think of him Are very hard to find. Within our store of memories, He holds a place apart. For no one else should ever be, More cherished in our hearts.
Sadly missed by

Craze To Buy Off-Beat Stuff Grows

HOP TO SOME HIP SHOP TO BUY POP: The craze to buy off-beat stuff—clothes and for your room—is getting bigger. For precious possessions, like maybe Victorian undergarments, coats with military insignia or epaulettes, German World War I spiked helmets, bizarre lamps, souvenir and old-fashioned items, the safari usually leads far afield. Here are places YOUTH BEAT has cased recently where you can pay dirt and pick up these beloved wear-gear, etc., nuggets. Fourteen-year-old are the surplus military stores (for military, hunting, western); a possibility lurks in work clothing stores (some military, but better for picturesque work shirts, pants, hats);

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

the Salvation Army rehabilitates clothes (as well as the homeless men who help put them in shape) and so does Goodwill Industries—both have stores in places coast to coast, with unexpected gems amidst the second-hand litter; also, thrift shops, second-hand shops (and even pawn shops) are worth browsing. Some prime loot turned up in a speedy tour of (mostly) Salvation Army and Goodwill stores with such "rehabilitated" gems as: dresses from the '20s, leather jackets, messes of sweaters, ordinary and wild-stripe shirts, beatup real fur coats (scissor to size), big-piece old-fashioned jewelry (ornamented watches), scrambles of buttons (sorry, not with slogans); for entertainment—records, records, records (all kinds—dirt cheap)... and books, books, books (10 cents and up); for your room or any kooky thing—giant old mirrors, wild lamps, junkyards of lampshades, souvenir postcards, big cubes of typewriters (looking like the original office typewriter), and a zany old exercise bicycle. O.K., if you want to poke through it all you can find delicious things, but remember, too... there's always grandma's attic.

BUTTON, BUTTON—MORE BUTTONS: A handful more of right up-to-date slogan buttons from the nation's leading beatnik shops: "Stamp out Reality," "You Interest Me," "No body for Governor," "Babies Kiss Everybody — Why Can't You?," "I Hate Everybody."

RADIO AND YOU—1967: That box the sound comes out of and you can listen to in a completely dark room or walking out on the sunny street—the radio—was supposed to disappear in the year 1959, clobbered by television. Who saved radio? You insisted on switching the dials and, as you have in so many other things, started a whole new trend—a regular avalanche of disc jockeys rolling out music (instead of the old soap opera, drama and comedy network fare). So listen to what you caused: More radio sets than ever... about 280 million at the end of 1966... mostly home sets, but also transistors and auto radios. You brought back radio and you dominate one part of it—rock 'n' roll stations (uh-uh, beware, surveys show the oldies are tending to sneak a listen to these, too). But, you only buy 20 per cent of radios sold, and you listen selectively, by the kind of stuff your local stations dish out and your other interests and the season. For instance, in cool Boston less than half as many teen ears tune in to early morning radio in summer as in winter... in tumultuous New York more than 80 per cent do. In windy Chicago: you dial before-noon radio 16 times as often in the summer as in the winter... while in hot New Orleans you listen to the late afternoon radio only half as much in summer as in winter. So what, if you continue to drive stations and advertisers frantic?—you listen to what you like!

WHAT'S COMING UP NEW IN RADIO: Checks around among big and little wigs in the radio field come up with this answer—not much new... In 1967 radio will continue to roll out the beat bigger than ever of those tunes you go for on those stations you tune to. One small sign in the 1967 radio sky: Telephone-in type shows are growing, from a few spots to 67 to 70 per cent of the programs on some stations... and new types of the telephone-in show are beaming in... Some of these will be baited to lure you to listen.

IS PARIS HEADING FOR THE NO-SKIRT? News reports on the miniskirt continue to pour in. We hope maybe (but can't promise) that today's will be the big news to end all miniskirt news items. Word has spanned the Atlantic that the situation in Paris is so mini that a decrepit-aged Frenchman (44), reacting from his fourth auto collision in a month because of miniskirt observing, jumped into the Seine... only to be rescued by two motorboat girls—dressed in miniskirts. This demoralization of La Patrie goes on widely, with teen coeds describing their miniskirts as "oo la la," though others label them "strip-tease in motion"... Waiters in restaurants say tips go up when high hemlines walk in... and Frenchmen who traditionally eye a girl all over are now feared to be becoming "high-eyed." Perhaps in patriotic defense, the Paris high-fashion designers are threatening to drop hemlines with a bang—below knees by next spring... But young French girls who have been raising skirts by doubling back hems three inches at a time are undaunted... One, model-designer Sylvie Courin, proclaims, "We will go the limit!"—indicating this may mean skirts of swimsuit length!

AT JUST $39.95

CHANNEL MASTER'S Jetaway leaves all other tape recorders behind!

This little recorder just 4 1/2 lbs. light and 8 1/2" x 4" small sounds like a more expensive heavyweight. 2-speed cassette drive, 3-stage audio amplification, and solid state circuitry, are the main reasons for its surprisingly fine performance. You can even record directly from a radio, hi-fi, or another tape recorder. Complete with dynamic microphone and accessories. Model 647A.

CHANNEL MASTER's Portable Tape Recorder

It's a feature you won't usually find even in high-priced tape recorders of the non-portable kind. During group conversation, Automatic Level Control takes a voice which is close to the mic—and a distant voice barely feet away—and automatically levels them at a uniform volume level. Other features: Single lever control, digital counter, professional V-Motor, tone control, 3-speed reel, 3 1/2 and 7 1/2 IPS speeds. Fine for both voice and music because superb solid state hi-fi circuitry assures hi-fi-like sound. All accessories. The price? Come hear it that isn't the biggest surprise of all. Model 646A.
